Make your first big step a good one. With Ryder training.

Some people weren't cut out to be cooped up.

Maybe you're one of them. You want to climb the Big Rig Ladder. And Ryder Technical is where you start your climb.

By the time you've completed your training course, you will know what it is like to swing up into a big rig cab like this one. Show it who's boss. Make those 855 cubic inches of raw diesel power behave, with a lot of gears to tame them.

Your Ryder Tech course begins with home study lessons, learning the rules of the road, safety regulations for different types of cargo, drive trains, transmissions, braking systems.

Then you move on to the real thing at a Ryder Training Center. We put you through three tough weeks of driver training, on the driving range and on the road. Backing. Docking. Coupling. Doing reverse serpentines. Then taking the big rigs out on the Interstate.

You got what it takes to take on the big rigs? Over 20? Good driving record? In good physical condition? Then fill out the coupon today and let's talk it over. If you're a veteran, great! Ryder Technical Institute is approved for veteran's training.

If you want to climb the big rig ladder, start with the pros at Ryder.

GEORGIE and the DRAGON

STORY: M.J. PELLOWSKI

ART: JOHN BYRNE

Georgie was a Squire to Sir Bragget, one of King Arthur's knights of the Round Table. It was Georgie's job to care for the knight's armor, weapons and "Charger," the knight's valiant, white steed. Georgie kept Sir Bragget's equipment in perfect condition. He never knew when they would be called into combat. A dragon terrorizing the countryside or a damsel in distress might pop up at any minute and a brave knight and his squire always had to be ready.

Sir Bragget was ready but he was never actually in combat with anything larger than a fly. Other squire's knights accomplished brave and heroic deeds. All Sir Bragget ever did was sit at the Round Table and tell tall tales about deeds he'd never done. He'd twirl his black mustache between his fingers and claim he'd slain many, horrible, fire-breathing monsters. Sir Bragget's imagination was stronger than his sword arm.

Georgie wished he had been assigned to a well-known knight like Sir Lancelot or Sir Gawain. Georgie wanted to be a knight. Since squires learned their chivalrous trade from the knights they cared for, Georgie wasn't learning anything except how to make up stories.

Then one day it happened! All of the other knights were away performing various tasks for the King. Queen Gwenivere's beautiful niece was trapped in a tower by a fire-breathing dragon. The dragon was using his fiery breath to burn up the crops. He was eating anyone who dared to pass too close to the tower where the young girl was a prisoner. Sir Bragget was the only knight available for the job of slaying the monster. "Sire, I'd love to volunteer but I have a blister on my foot. I am catching a cold. I have a hang nail on my sword hand," explained Sir Bragget hoping one of his excuses would save him from going on the dangerous mission. It didn't work.

"Are we going into battle?" asked Georgie when Sir Bragget entered the stables. "Gadzooks! The misfortune of it all is ... that we are!" answered Sir Bragget. Georgie had already prepared the knight's horse and battle equipment. Moments later, Sir Bragget astride his horse "Charger" and Georgie astride a donkey were off to slay a dragon and save a princess.

When at last they came to the tower where the Princess Danielle was imprisoned, the dragon wasn't to be seen. Then suddenly, the ground shook! There was a soul-piercing roar that sounded like a volcano erupting. A green, scaly, winged dragon thrashed out of a dense woods where he had been feeding on treetops. He opened his jaws revealing rows of gleaming teeth. Smoke and flames belled out of his mouth. The dragon charged!

Sir Bragget was terrified. He shook so violently that his armor rattled. The visor of his helmet fell over his eyes and blinded him. Charger reared up and Sir Bragget tumbled from the saddle onto the ground. He laid there covering his head with his hands. "Help! Help!" he screamed as the dragon came closer and closer. Georgie leaped off his donkey and snatched up

Sir Bragget's discarded lance, sword and shield. He hepped onto Charger's back and nudged the valiant horse in the ribs. The horse dashed off to meet the dragon's charge.

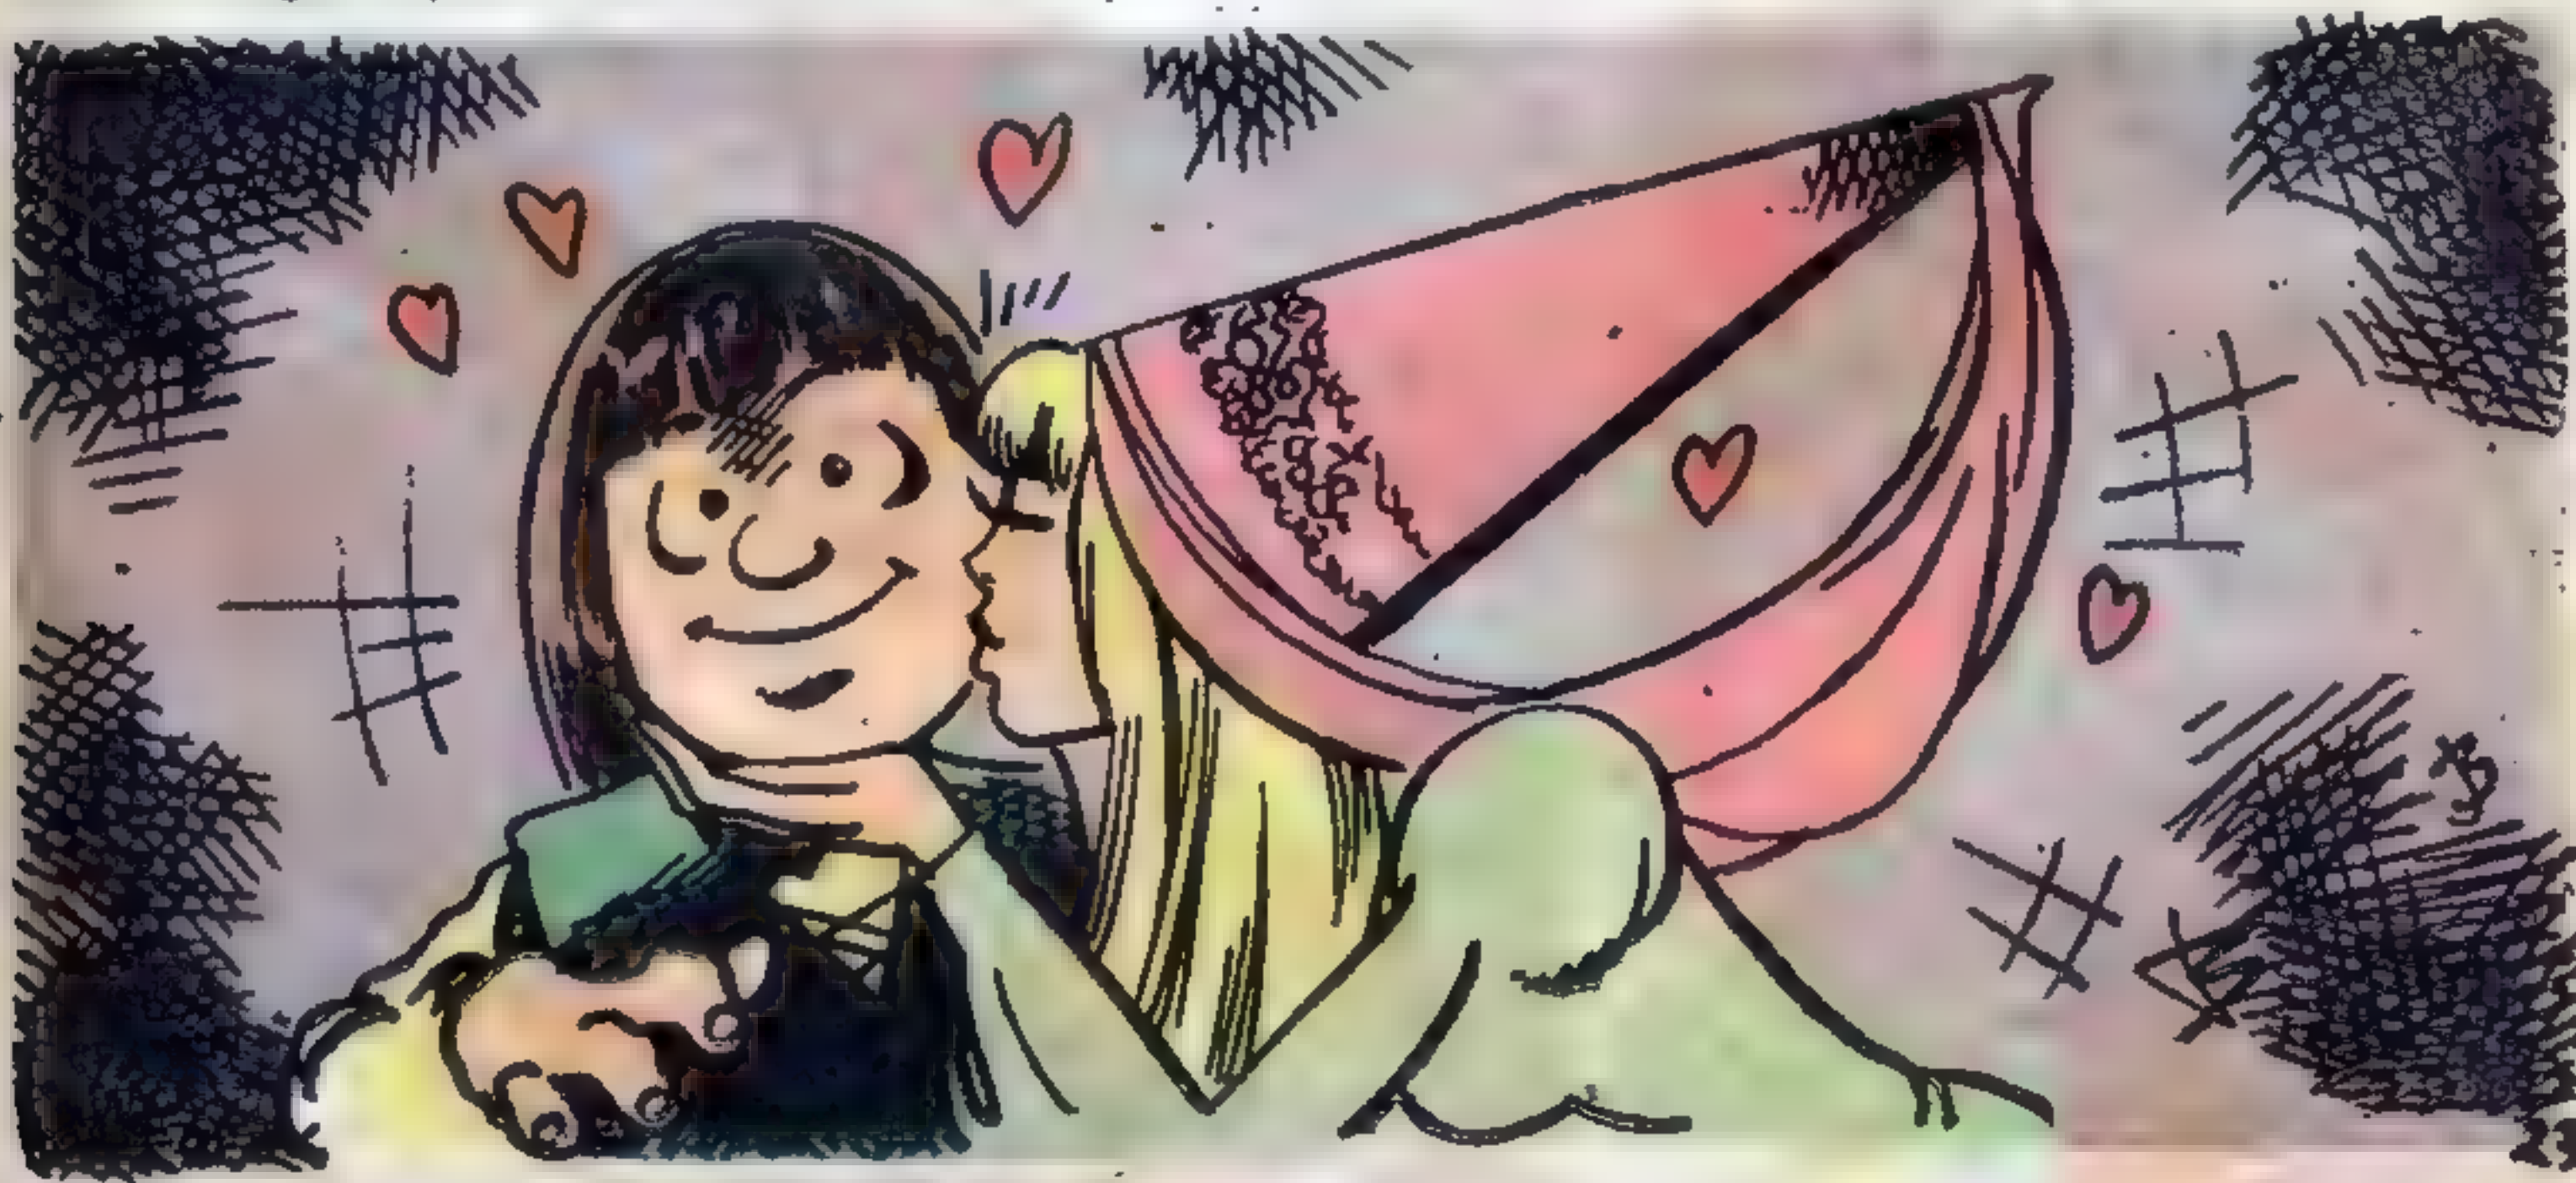

The beast opened its fiery mouth to swallow the horse and rider. Georgie knew everything depended on him. If he failed, all was lost. He aimed the sharp lance at the dragon's soft, vulnerable stomach. The rest of the dragon's body was covered with thick, armor plated scales. The monster roared and an inferno of flames gushed out of its jaws. The grass burst into flames. Georgie was unafraid. He held the horse's reins tightly and carefully aimed the tip of his lance. He would get only one chance. He couldn't afford to miss. Charger leaped over rows of burning hay that had become fiery walls.

The hideous dragon reared back on its hind legs in a last attempt to kill the charging duo. Georgie thrust the lance into the dragon with all of his strength. The dragon howled in pain and ran off into the hills never to be seen again.

The next thing Georgie knew Princess Danielle was calling him a hero. He held her in his arms and the two of them rode Charger back to the castle. Sir Bragget rode back on the donkey. King Arthur knighted Georgie and bestowed upon him the title ... "Dragon Chaser". Sir Bragget was demoted and would serve as the "Dragon Chaser's" squire. The reward Georgie liked best of all was the grateful kiss he received from the beautiful Princess Danielle.
